

Re ECO BLOCK

To those looking into eco block,

We were able to use eco block in one of our recent projects as a insulated basement system and were amazed at the ease of putting this foundation together.

We have used a few different products over the years and have been convinced to recommend and try to use eco block in the future for our projects where we can.

We found the blocks very easy to handle ,light and simple to put in place.

They were a lot easier to set up and cut if you had uneven foundation or if the footings were down lower than ground level which would be impossible with concrete blocks.

Then once we had them all in place{ which was a very quick process without needing any other subcontractors on site }, the bracing system to straighten and hold them which eco block can hire to you saved us and the concrete placers a lot of time in set up and straitening.

The blocks were then able to be poured up to the full height in the same day saving getting the pump in more than once.

We would recommend this product to anyone wanting to achieve great insulation and still have a very solid wall construction.
